

BOTH ARE INDICTED FOR BANK FRAUDS

Special Grand Jury Returns True Bills Against Overby and Haskins.

SEVERAL TRUE BILLS AGAINST EACH ONE

Cashier of Bank of Mecklenburg to Meet Five Charges, and Cashier of Branch Bank Four—Judge Barksdale's Clear Charge.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] OYDTON, VA., June 25.—L. W. Overby, cashier of the Bank of Mecklenburg, and C. Haskins, cashier of the Chase City branch of the same institution, were indicted to-day by the special grand jury ordered by Judge Barksdale to investigate the conduct of the affairs of the two banks.

Five indictments were returned against Overby and four against Haskins. Both are charged with fraudulently disposing of money belonging to the respective banks and with other offenses.

Charges Against Overby. The indictments against Overby are as follows:

First.—For fraudulently disposing of $24,193.13 of the bank's money to B. E. Cogbill, under section 3716 of the Code.

Second.—For making a false entry upon the account of the bank in the amount of $1,750, purporting to be the proceeds of the sale of ten shares of the bank stock to B. E. Cogbill, under section 3729, with intent to conceal the true state of said account.

Third.—For omitting to make an entry of $5,000 upon the account of the bank, as a credit in favor of its branch office at Chase City, with intent to conceal the true state of said account, under section 3720.

Fourth.—For feloniously receiving a deposit of $200, and converting the same to his own use, in violation of section 1171.

Fifth.—For fraudulently disposing of $2,225.54 of the bank's money to B. E. Cogbill, in violation of section 3716.

The Haskins Charges. The four indictments against Haskins are:

First, for fraudulently disposing of $14,425.41 to the Airshaw Manufacturing Company.

Second, for fraudulently disposing of $12,164.31 to the Kirsch Manufacturing Company.

Third, for making a false entry in the bank's account.

Fourth, for making a false entry in the bank's account.

The special grand jury which made the investigation and returned the indictments, is composed of George T. Barry (foreman), T. M. Toome, J. O. Rainey, W. R. Baskerville, A. Leach, T. J. Allen, R. E. Daniel and T. G. Simmons. These are among the most prominent citizens in the county. The time for the trial of the two bank officers will be fixed later on.

Judge Barksdale's Charge. Judge Barksdale, who presided over the grand jury, was a very clear, strong and interesting paper. He reviewed the facts in connection with the investigation of the bank, and the indictments, which created a profound sensation, declared the failure of the bank to be a calamity whose evil results will be widespread and lasting; told of the investigation made by Mr. H. B. Boudar, the expert, and continued:

"While upon warrants issued by order of the board of directors, both Overby and Haskins, who were the cashier of the bank at Oydton, and at Chase City have been arrested and are charged with criminal conduct, your duty, gentlemen, will be to make a full and thorough investigation to ascertain not only the criminal responsibility and liability of Mr. Overby and Mr. Haskins, but of any other person, and to see that there be the responsibility of the directors to the depositors is not a thing to be considered by you."

Judge Barksdale, continuing, pointed out the various statutes governing the banks and bank officers, and gave the penalties prescribed for the violation of these. Concluding, he said: "And to the negligence of the president and directors, and their failure, if any, to discharge any duty imposed on them by law, by which loss has occurred, you have nothing to do, unless it shall appear from the evidence that there has been by them a violation of some of the criminal statutes above referred to."

After charge you, however, gentlemen, to examine the evidence set before you carefully, diligently and fully, so as to ascertain whether there was not a conspiracy between B. E. Cogbill, the chief beneficiary of the wrongdoing of L. W. Overby and others, to defraud the bank.

"A great wrong and outrage has been committed, and swift and speedy justice should be visited on the wrongdoer, whoever he may be. While in your actions you should not be swayed by passion, prejudice or any other emotion, you should remember that the man is above the law, and you should not through fear or favor, I deem it not improper to say that in a report made to me by Special Commissioner Smith, it appears that Mr. Haskins has, since his arrest, made full restitution to the bank for the loss occasioned by his misconduct. You will, however, hear all the evidence as to his conduct and dealings with the bank, and take action as to you may seem proper under the circumstances."

NOTED CIVIL WAR RAIDER MURDERED IN TENNESSEE. LEBANON, TENN., June 25.—Captain Willie Harper was shot and killed here to-day by William Sutt, whom it is said, Harper had attacked with a stick. Sutt, who is one of Governor Patterson's friends, is alleged to have written an article for a Nashville paper, at which Harper, who was a Confederate soldier, took offense. Captain Harper was a picturesque figure during the Civil War as a noted raider.

VERITABLE DEATH TRAP

No Hope for Majority of Those on the Larache When She Sank.

CORUNNA, SPAIN, June 25.—Up to a late hour to-night (twenty-three bodies had been recovered from the scene of the Larache disaster. According to the latest information, the Larache carried only fifty-two in the crew and fifty-nine passengers, all of whom have been accounted for with the exception of thirty-eight. The survivors have been engaged all day in a search for bodies, but the heavy seas made the task a most difficult one. The survivors told of harrowing scenes that followed the sinking of the steamer. The captain, suffering with rheumatism, left his bunk, and rushing on deck, leaped half-naked into the sea. He was washed ashore unconscious.

Most of the passengers on the Larache were residents of the Argentine Republic. The Larache was little more than an old tub, and she proved a veritable death-trap when she struck on the rocks near Muron. She sank in a few minutes, leaving the passengers and crew struggling in the water. The small boats on the Larache were either smashed or capsized. There was a fleet of fishing boats in the neighborhood, and they rushed to the rescue, but the heavy fog prevailing seriously interfered with their work. The ship's doctor and chief officer were drowned. The disaster occurred at 5 o'clock in the morning. Most of those saved are without clothing.

PAPERS SERVED ON GOULD

Declined to Say Whether He Will Defend Wife's Suit for Divorce.

NEW YORK, June 25.—Papers have been served upon Frank J. Gould in a suit for absolute divorce, brought by his wife, Miss Helen M. Kelley. Service was made at Mr. Gould's office yesterday. He declined to say whether he would defend the suit. Mr. and Mrs. Gould were married in 1901. The first rumors of trouble came in 1906, when it was said a separation was being considered. Conciliation was effected, but rumors of dissension continued until the actual parting last April. Mrs. Gould remaining at their Fifth Avenue home with the two children—Helen, aged five, and Dorothy, aged three years. Mrs. Gould has been twenty days in which to file her bill of complaint, and her husband a like period in which to file an answer. It is said that Mrs. Gould names a pretty young singer. The specific charge occurred aboard the yacht, the Anita, last winter, when, it is alleged, the young woman was aboard.

MILITARY SCANDAL

Mrs. Hains Resists Divorce Proceedings, and Threatens Exposure.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] BOSTON, MASS., June 25.—Peter C. Hains, formerly Miss Claudia Libbey, of Winthrop, whose husband, Captain Peter C. Hains, has started suit against her for divorce, denies vehemently his charges of unfaithfulness and misconduct, and swears she will have evidence of certain orgies in court at the trial, which will start a volcanic eruption and heavy circles. Mrs. Hains was married when she was sixteen years old, when Captain Hains was a lieutenant at Fort Banks. Since that they have lived at Fort Monroe, Va., and Fort Hamilton, in New York harbor. The alleged misconduct is said to have occurred while he was in the Philippines, and to have been discovered by Captain Hains's brother, T. Jenkins Hains, the novelist. Mrs. Hains, who became well known in Virginia military circles, declares her husband only desires to get rid of her.

TO MEET IN ASHEVILLE

Henry O. Gray, of Louisville, Elected President by National T. P. A.

MILWAUKEE, WIS., June 25.—The Commercial Travelers' Interstate Congress of New York, which meets in New York City on August 14-15 "to boom prosperity," was indorsed in a set of resolutions adopted by the Travelers' Protective Association in convention here to-day. Mayor David S. Rose, of Milwaukee, Delegates Lemline, of New York, and Morse, of New York, spoke in favor of the resolutions.

Asheville, N. C., was selected as the place for the next convention.

Henry O. Gray, of Louisville, was unanimously elected president. Allen L. Bird, of Columbia, S. C., was elected first vice-president. The list of directors for the next year includes the name of Alexander, Jr., of Philadelphia, C. J. King, of Rome, Ga., was elected director for one year to fill the unexpired term of H. O. Gray, the newly elected president.

AWOKE HER TO CUT THROAT

Goos to Room of Wife, Who Had Left Him, and Slashed Her.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] PHILADELPHIA, PA., June 25.—Mehew Hazel, of No. 3827 Lancaster Avenue, cut his wife, Mrs. Hazel, this morning that there is no hope for her recovery.

Last July the couple eloped to Baltimore and were married, the bride being just sixteen years of age. She accused her husband of ill treatment, and returned to her parents' home. When her husband followed her, he was forbidden the house. This morning, after her father had gone to work, Hazel appeared at the house, and though denied admittance by his wife's mother, she entered, and, coolly walked up stairs, and found his wife asleep with her younger sister. He awoke her and said: "You won't speak to me, eh?" and drew a razor across her throat.

She was hastened to a hospital, but the physicians say she cannot recover. Her husband escaped.

STABBED BY LOVER

Young Married Woman Murdered in Suit by Man She Repulsed.

PHILADELPHIA, PA., June 25.—Mrs. Annie Cassner, aged twenty-seven years, was found to-day lying on the sidewalk in the northeastern section of the city with a stab wound in her heart. A butcher knife, picked up on the street, was found in the body, and the arrest of Robert Brown, aged twenty-two years, a butcher, who had paid court to Mrs. Cassner before her marriage. He denied knowledge of the crime, but when confronted with the corpse, broke down and confessed. He made a scene and the police were compelled to drag him from the scene.

When he encountered Mrs. Cassner on the street, and when she repulsed him, the police say, the stabbing followed.

HARVARD BOAT DEFEATS YALE

Yale Stroke Collapses Near Three Mile Mark and Crew Badly Beaten.

SECRETARY TAFT WITNESSES RACE

Wild Scene of Tumultuous Demonstration When the Crimson Finishes Far in the Lead. President's Family Present in the Mayflower.

NEW LONDON, CONN., June 25.—A deafening din of steam whistles and horns, and amid the frenzied shouts of college boys, the Harvard varsity eight shot their boat over the finish line to-night, winning from the crippled and distanced Yale crew, that classic of American college aquatics, the Harvard-Yale boat race. But, instead of a race, Harvard finished the last mile and a half alone, while behind Yale limped along with but seven men at the oars, with Griswold, the stroke—the man who had been relied upon to set the winning pace—bent forward, limp and gasping from the terrific strain of the opening two miles.

Up to this unexpected climax it had been a stirring struggle, worthy of the best traditions of the old antagonists, and with the fitting setting of a marine spectacle such as had seldom been equaled along a regatta course for brilliancy and magnitude. For the first time, too, the President of the United States has taken keen and active interest as a champion of the crimson colors, and although compelled by circumstances to absent himself today, the spirit of his enthusiasm was voiced by the Roosevelt family, who witnessed the contest from the deck of the presidential yacht. Yale was more fortunate in having her distinguished champion, Secretary Taft, present in reality, the central figure of a group of collegians aboard one of the observation trains, who shouted encouragement to the Yale crew as they sped over the early reaches of the course, and then lapsed into glum dismay as Griswold seemed to fall over helpless in the Yale boat. The race was rowed under the most favorable racing conditions, just as the sun was setting over the picturesque Thames, with the water broken only by ripples, a cloudless sky, and a light northerly breeze.

The picture of the straining rowers as they started on their course was one of intense interest. At either hand the green hills of the Thames stretched away, dotted with old-fashioned New England farmhouses, the river ringed with solid masses of people and with crowded observation trains skirting the banks and keeping abreast of the flying boats. The great steel draw bridge spanning the Thames marked the start of the race, with the finish at Red Top, four miles up stream. Just above the bridge were massed the main flotilla of pleasure craft, with many of them, well-lit steam yachts, auxiliaries, gulls, and schooners, the very pick of the Atlantic pleasure fleet, their rigging bright with signal flags from stem to stern, their spick and span decks alive with yachtsmen, university men and society girls in bright summer costume, fathers, fans and gay parasols. Further up the course, for four miles, stretched long lines of steam and sailing craft of every conceivable description—big ocean-going revenue cutters, torpedo boats, palatial yachts, auto-boats and sharp-beaked Herreshoff racers. The Sybil, the Roosevelt aboard, had a point of vantage, while all about were the racing tracks of every class in American waters.

Through this maze of craft the rowers threaded their way with a clear, open course two hundred feet wide, marked every half-mile with red and blue standards. Every eye was riveted on the bronze, swaying forms in the shells, as they bent to the terrific strain of 26, then 30, then 35 strokes to the minute, driving their frail craft through the water as with knives. Above the shouts from the onlookers could be heard the shrill voices of the coxswains, megaphones to mouth, stimulating their men and marking time with "one, two, three, four." Yale had "splashed" at the start, and the Harvard men had been quick to take this advantage, pushing their boat slightly ahead. There the Harvard crew, with their stamens against the pack, through the roaring avenues of nerve-racked, screaming thousands, half a mile from the start, both crews were almost side by side, Harvard being a few feet to the fore; one mile, Harvard still ahead, with Yale holding on doggedly; two miles, Yale spurring and lessening the gap; two and a half miles, Harvard still in the lead.

BALLOT BOXES STUFFED

Hearst's Counsel Claims That Recount Shows This.

NEW YORK, June 25.—With the practical close of the actual recounting of the ballots cast in the last mayoralty election to-day came charges by Clarence J. Shearn, counsel for William R. Hearst, that the ballot boxes had been stuffed. When Mr. Hearst began his log-cabin campaign for the mayor's office, he occupied by George B. McClellan, he had a plurality of 3,824 votes to overcome. The returns from the contents of only forty-six out of a total of 1,948 ballot boxes remained to be received when court adjourned to-day. The vote in all the boxes, unreported, Hearst has made a net gain of 843, leaving a plurality of 4,667 for Mayor McClellan.

Mr. Shearn said that the recount of the ballots established the complaint set forth, namely that there was an excess of ballots in the boxes over the record of number of voters in each election district. "The complaint charges fraud," said Mr. Shearn, "not only in a miscount of the ballots, but in effect charges a stuffing of the ballot boxes. We don't mean that the boxes were stuffed after the election, but during the election or immediately after its close."

Mr. Shearn added that he was able to prove that from ten to fifty excess ballots had been deposited in many boxes late on election night, and that at the final hearing on the recount another charge will be made that many instances of ballot boxes were stuffed. He asked the court to give him an opportunity to prove the charge.

Later Mr. Shearn said that he believed the complaint would still be made to prove that the election was fraudulent, and that the title to his office.

Counsel for Mayor McClellan declared that the charge of ballot-box stuffing was baseless. The hearing will be continued Monday.

FUNERAL OF THREE VICTIMS

Impressive Service at Burial of Victims of Lightning.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] CHARLOTTESVILLE, VA., June 25.—The joint funeral of Lindsay Barr, Robert Smith and Ralph Beitel, the three youths killed by lightning while standing under a tree near "Orange Dale" during the terrific storm yesterday afternoon, took place at 4 o'clock this afternoon from the First Baptist Church, the service being conducted by the pastor, the Rev. Furman H. Martin. The church was filled to overflowing, and the service was an exceedingly impressive one.

Dr. Martin stated that he had conducted many funerals in his ministerial life, but never before had he been called upon to preach a funeral just like this one—of three boys who were very near the same age, friends who loved each other, and sought each other's company, and who had died at the same time, at the same place, and from the same cause.

The three white coffins, which rested in front of the chancel rail, were banked with flowers. Twenty-four boys from the grammar department of the city public school, fellow-pupils of the three victims, were present, and as the procession began to move from the church the scene was very affecting. The grief of the relatives of the dead boys could not be contained, and there was hardly a dry eye in the congregation.

STAB WOUND THROUGH HEART

Former Lover Admits Killing Woman Who Had Married Another.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] PHILADELPHIA, PA., June 25.—Mrs. Annie Cassner, aged twenty-seven, of 2410 Adams Street, was found dead in the street this morning with a stab wound through the heart.

Neighborhood gossip caused the arrest of Robert Brown, aged twenty-two, of 1024 Russell Street. He had intimate knowledge of the crime until the corpse was brought into the room and uncovered. Then he fell on his knees, clasped the corpse in his arms and fervently kissed the lips. He then confessed that he and Mrs. Cassner had been sweethearts, but that they quarreled, and she had married Captain on a shelf in a closet and knocked the pistol down. It exploded and the ball struck her just below the heart.

When she refused a quarrel arose, and in a fit of temper he stabbed her with a butcher knife.

MRS. BILLUPS SHOTS SELF

Pistol Is Accidentally Discharged, Involving Perhaps Fatal Wound.

NORFOLK, VA., June 25.—Mrs. Cecile Billups, of Edgewater, prominent in social circles, and aged thirty years, accidentally shot herself to-night at her home in Edgewater. Attending physicians say she cannot recover.

It is explained that Mrs. Billups was reaching for a bottle of medicine on a shelf in a closet and knocked the pistol down. It exploded and the ball struck her just below the heart.

FOURTEEN BALLOTS BUT NO NOMINATION

North Carolina Democrats Vote in Vain to Select Governor.

GAIN FOR KITCHIN, BUT NOT ENOUGH

Both He and Horne Show Slight Advances, but No Material Change in Result—Delegates Are Restless. Stormy Scenes in Meeting.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., June 26.—After having taken fourteen ballots without material change, the Democratic State Convention adjourned at 2 o'clock this morning to meet again at 10 o'clock.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] CHARLOTTE, N. C., June 25.—After a session of twenty hours, an almost continuous performance of the Democratic State Convention is no nearer a conclusion on the gubernatorial contest at midnight than when it convened Wednesday afternoon.

Congressman W. W. Kitchen, who came to the convention with a lead of thirty-three votes over Locke Craig, of Buncombe, has increased his lead to forty-six votes, while Colonel Ashley Horne, of Johnson county, has gained some strength and is stubbornly holding his own.

Fourteen ballots had been taken at midnight, with no prospects of a break in the deadlock. An effort to introduce a dark horse early in the night was quickly squelched. The delegates are becoming weary, but are receiving encouraging messages from home urging them to stick to their respective candidates all summer if necessary. The session to-night, thus far, has been somewhat less turbulent, though there have been several violent demonstrations for the leading candidates. The balloting has been going along smoother and quicker, but with no material change, save for the gain of a few votes by Kitchen.

Tumultuous Convention. Never has the State witnessed a more tumultuous political convention than the assembling now holding forth in the auditorium. The gathering was quiet and orderly enough Wednesday from the time it was called to order until the nominating speeches began, and then the disorder commenced. The speech of former Governor Aycock, nominating Craig, Wednesday night, was the signal for the first demonstration, which lasted forty-five minutes.

All night long the chairman and secretaries battled with the confusion, and the work of calling the roll of delegates for the balloting was tedious and difficult. Frequently the chairman had to threaten to clear the galleries. Several times there were personal encounters, and once, in the early morning hours to-day, matters looked seriously indeed, when a half dozen men mounted the stage and sprang upon a kitchen frame, bearing a cloth banner, which his supporters were trying to hoist upon the stage, and tore it to shreds. This stormy turmoil continued throughout the morning, with the result that only four of the delegates were able to get change, and at 7 o'clock the delegates, worn out, agreed to adjourn.

More Ballots Without Result. Again at noon they reassembled, and balloting was resumed. Five more ballots were taken, with only slight changes, and at 4:40 o'clock another adjournment was called for 8 o'clock to-night, and the balloting was again resumed.

The situation has been interesting in the extreme. Horne's followers are standing as solid as the rock of Gibraltar, and there was not the slightest defection in his vote. It was agreed that he was probably the only one of the three that could control his delegation, while the two leading candidates were afraid to move either way, because they could not control their delegations. There were overtures with delegates from Craig to Horne, and from Horne to Craig, but without material result, and thus the convention was kept in a deadlock. Horne had the key to the situation.

The platform will not be made public until it is submitted to the convention. It is understood that it carries an indorsement of Bryan. When the nomination of other State officers will be reached, no one knows.

REPORT THAT CHEMICAL MAY ISSUE NEW BOND SERIES

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

NEW YORK, June 25.—Rumors are current that the management of the Virginia-Carolina Chemical Company is considering the issue of $15,000,000 of bonds, out of which the outstanding $5,000,000 bonds of the company will be retired.

No details are obtainable, and a director of the company says that such issue has not been authorized by the board.

SHERMAN RECOVERS

No Further Cause to Be Anxious, Physicians Now Say.

CLEVELAND, O., June 25.—Representative James S. Sherman, Republican vice-presidential candidate, made such rapid progress toward recovery from his illness to-day that all thoughts of an immediate operation have been abandoned. The candidate is near recovery, Dr. E. P. Carter said to-night, and there is now no reason to be anxious over his condition.

Mr. Sherman passed a comfortable day. The greatest progress was during morning. During the afternoon he lost no ground. At 8 o'clock to-night his temperature was 99.4; at the same hour last night it was 101.6. To-night the pulse was 72, a decrease of sixteen, and the respirations were 23 four higher than last night.

Mrs. Sherman was with her husband almost constantly to-day. The patient to-day received scores of prescriptions for gall stones and some medicine from sympathizing people.

BOOM FOR CHANLER

Mack Wants New York Man to Be Nominated for Vice-Presidency.

DENVER, COL., June 25.—Norman E. Mack, of Buffalo, arrived to-day, bringing with him a boom for Lieutenant Governor Chanler, of New York, for the vice-presidential nomination.

"Conceding the nomination for first place to Mr. Bryan," he said, "I think the nomination for Vice-President should go to New York State. Mr. Chanler has demonstrated his popularity there, and I am very sure his nomination would add strength to the ticket."

"Would he be acceptable to Mr. Bryan?" he was asked.

"Of course, Mr. Bryan is not attempting to dictate the choice of a running-mate," Mr. Mack replied, "but I don't mind telling you that in Lincoln yesterday I discussed Mr. Chanler with him, and am sure the selection would not be displeasing."

Mr. Mack was accompanied by his wife, who will remain here with him until after the convention. He is a member of the committee on arrangements. Immediately after breakfast he took off his coat and went to work with his colleagues to prepare details for the convention. He predicts a large attendance from Eastern cities.

Mr. Mack reiterated to-day the statement he made yesterday in Lincoln, that he believed no government ownership plank or mention of government ownership of railroads would be in the Democratic platform.

This is the impression I gained from a talk with Mr. Bryan while I was in Lincoln," added Mr. Mack. "I do not believe that the convention and Mr. Bryan are going to be at variance on the platform. I have a fairly good idea of what the majority of the convention will be satisfied with, and I think I have a fairly good idea of what Mr. Bryan has in mind in that connection. I believe that there will be no considerable difference of opinion between the leaders of the convention and the Nebraska."

TAGGART FOR KERN

Declares Indiana Man Will Be Bryan's Running Mate.

DENVER, COL., June 25.—Thomas Taggart, chairman of the Bryan campaign committee, came to town to-day, bringing along a vice-presidential boom, which he put forth with much enthusiasm.

"Bryan will be nominated on the first ballot, without a doubt, and his running mate will be John W. Kern, of Indiana," he declared.

This was the greeting Mr. Taggart gave to newspaper men. A little later, when he had visited the convention hall, he exhibited little less enthusiasm. "The arrangements for the convention are first," he said, "I cannot see how they could be improved upon. The auditorium is a wonderful place of architecture, and everything seems to be in most tip-top shape."

Chairman Taggart has called a meeting of the national committee for Saturday morning, when the principal business will be to determine the contests for seats as delegates. These are comparatively few in number. So far as fixed with Secretary Woodson, they include contests for the Second, Third, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth and Seventh Districts of New York; the Ninth Ohio and the delegation from the District of Columbia.

It has been reported that a number of seats from Illinois are to be contested, but as yet no official notice of such intention has been received.

COMMITTEE BANKRUPT

Lord Sets Forth to Break Into Democratic Money Basin.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 25.—The Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee, confronting a hard proposition in the matter of money to carry on the campaign, and Representative Lloyd, its chairman, will go to New York early tomorrow for the purpose of breaking into some of the barrels of Democratic money, which he must now have in whose loyalty to the party he has confidence. The fact is, the committee has begun its labors two months ahead of schedule time this year, and while it usually calls for money in September, it is said that the work is so far advanced that it must now have funds or call a halt in the sending out of literature. It has made extensive preparations, which it is ready to put into effect, in keeping with the early campaign project. Mr. Lloyd to-day stated that he does not expect to have his campaign budget result of his visit to New York will be to allow him to go ahead with the execution of plans that have been made.

Thomas Ambassador on Bryan's State

LONDON, June 25.—If William Jennings Bryan should be elected President of the United States, his appointee to the post of St. James would be Mr. Augustus Thomas, playwright. This was the statement made by a prominent American who gets his information from a source quite near to the possible Democratic candidate.

According to this information, Augustus Thomas, as a delegate to the National Democratic Convention, will place Mr. Bryan's name before that body.

HAS NOTHING TO SAY ABOUT THE VICE-PRESIDENCY

LINCOLN, NEB., June 25.—William J. Bryan was asked to-night to verify the published report that he would object to Governor John W. Aldrich, of Illinois, as his running mate. Mr. Bryan said:

"I am not discussing the vice-presidential situation, and I am not going to say 'I will say it to the public.'"

SIMPLE SERVICE AS CLEVELAND IS LAID TO REST

Troops to Guard Living President, Not to Show Homage to the Dead.

NATION'S TRIBUTE TO DEPARTED EXECUTIVE

Roosevelt, Hughes and Others to Attend, but Without Formality or Display of Any Sort. Grave Beside That of Daughter Ruth.

PRINCETON, N. J., June 25.—The funeral of Grover Cleveland to-morrow will be marked by extreme simplicity. Although he was twice elected President of the United States, and was recognized as the foremost citizen of America, no pomp or splendor will have a place in the ceremonies. There will be no bands to play dirges on the way to the old Princeton Cemetery; no military escort; no eulogy by the officiating clergymen. The half mile of thoroughfare through which the cortege will pass from "Westland," the Cleveland home, in Bayard Lane, to the cemetery, will be guarded by mounted troops and blue-coated soldiers, but they will be there for police duty and as a measure of precaution in protecting the living President, rather than as an element of display in paying tribute to a departed Chief Executive.

It has been Mrs. Cleveland's wish to avoid anything of a military nature at the funeral, and it was only when the necessity of guarding President Roosevelt was borne upon her by those in charge of the arrangements that she consented to the presence of troops.

Final Arrangements Made. The final arrangements for the ceremony and the names of those selected to officiate were announced this afternoon. Four clergymen will take part in the services at the house and at the grave.

They will read the burial service from the Presbyterian book of common worship, but will offer no eulogy. This simple but impressive service will be conducted by Dr. Henry Van Dyke, of Princeton; the Rev. Dr. William R. Richards, pastor of the Brick Presbyterian Church, of New York; the Rev. Sylvester W. Bell, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, of Princeton, where the Cleveland family attend, and the Rev. Maitland V. Bartlett, former pastor of the same church.

There will be no honorary pallbearers. Those who will be formed, this simple but impressive service will be conducted by Dr. Henry Van Dyke, of Princeton; the Rev. Dr. William R. Richards, pastor of the Brick Presbyterian Church, of New York; the Rev. Sylvester W. Bell, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, of Princeton, where the Cleveland family attend, and the Rev. Maitland V. Bartlett, former pastor of the same church.

Cleveland's body to its final resting place in the Cleveland plot will be Major George B. McClellan, Paul Morton, Commodore E. C. Benedict, Richard Watson Gilder, of New York; Professor Paul Van Dyke, Dean Andrew F. West, Professor John G. Hibben, Julius S. Morgan, a nephew of J. I. Lippert Morgan; A. D. Russell, Professor Howard McLenahan and Bayard Stockton, of Princeton.

After the services at the house, which will begin at 5 o'clock, and which will be brief, the cortege will be formed, and will proceed to the cemetery down Bayard Lane to Nassau Street, the principal thoroughfare in the village, thence up to Vandewater Avenue to Virgin Street, which leads to the cemetery, a highway long a rich cluster of historic monuments.

President to Attend. Only those invited to the funeral and few newspaper men will be permitted to enter the cemetery, which will be guarded by mounted troops and members of the National Guard of New Jersey. The simple Presbyterian service will be conducted at the grave, the highway along which the cortege will proceed, and one of the country's most distinguished citizens will have become but a memory.

President Roosevelt, Governor Fort, of New Jersey; Governor Hughes, of New York; Governor Hoke Smith, of Georgia; members in Princeton, Cleveland's Cabinet, and other
